

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of inducing bleeding after dental surgery involves a single step of flushing a surgical site with gaseous nitric oxide immediately following dental surgery.

5 The nitric oxide is a vasodilator which induces bleeding.